Hear, Land o' Cakes and brother Scouts. From Maidenlink to Johnny Groat. If there's a hole in a your coat, I'll be sure to find it.

Local Events.

A good hay crop usually makes it lively in stock dealings.

Wallace Jackson was able to be taken home Sunday.

Miss Eva Harris, of Charlottesville, is visiting Mrs. Andrew Price.

It seems to be a somewhat growing wonder among our farmers who will buy their lambs and what they will bring.

Mrs. Dr. Winston, one of the most distinguished women educators of Virginia is visiting her nephew, W. A. Bratton.

Dr. Marshall returned from Baltimore Thursday where he had accompanied Mrs. Wm. Criser to the Johns Hopkins Hospital.

A new war seems to have broken out between the French and the Moors in northern Africa and a bloody battle was fought last week.

John F. Dever was in Marlinton last week returning to his home in Ord, Nebraska, after a six week's stay in this native county.

Rev. C. G. Callison wishes to announce that he will not fill his appointments at Hamlin chapel and Buckeye the 2nd Sunday in Aug.

Children's day service was held at the Draft last Sunday evening. The service was well attended and an interesting and instructive program rendered.

Last week and this a great deal of well cured hay has been made. Perhaps there has never been a season when more and better hay was harvested.

Bernard Slaven put a tin roof on Capt. J. C. Gay's house on Elk last week. This is one of the largest dwellings in Pocahontas County, if not the very largest.

At a teacher's examination held in Marion county last week there were 32 applicants for certificates, 16 of whom failed; 3 received No. 1; 5 No. 2, and 8 No. 3.

Quite a wagon train passed Marlinton Thursday freighted with supplies for Smith & Whiting's camp. Work in these camps is being resumed vigorously.

Miss Georgia Baxter, of Onoto, a well known public school teacher of schools, has been seriously ill with typhoid fever. When last heard from she was a little better.

One of the best bred flocks of sheep in the county is to be sold at the Administrator of H. H. McClintic's sale August 22nd at Beaver Dam. See advertisement.

Pocahontas Musical Association, to look after the interests of sacred music in Marlinton and vicinity, had a preliminary appointment for Tuesday night, August 6.

What might have been a serious accident was narrowly averted last Sunday, when Miss Mabel Bird fell from a spring wagon on the Stony Creek road, and was dragged several yards before the team could be stopped.

The latest news from Edmund Buzzard, whose skull was fractured by a stone thrown through the car window at Hurricane, was that he was getting along very well. He was moved from the hospital at Charleston to Huntington last Saturday.

J. H. Rehan moved his show to Hillsboro Monday, after showing here for ten days. In the voting contest Saturday night for the most popular lady, prettiest baby and homeliest man, Miss Edna Cruikshank received the set of silver ware; Nellie Vandervoort the bonbon dish and T. C. Chilton the cane.

We were in a store the other day when we heard a merchant complaining about people ordering goods from the city, a man having ordered a barrel of sugar and a box of coffee from out of town. We turned to a letter pad lying on the counter and asked him where he had it printed, and he replied in Baltimore. He had no cause to complain.

In talking to a butcher of many years experience, he expressed his surprise at the way people killed young growing cattle, yearlings and two year olds, and expected to get tender beef. He went on to say that although a yearling may be plump, stock did not begin to take on fat until three years old and were in their prime at four.

We then expressed surprise at shipping young cattle to market to which he replied that to mark the yearlings that went to the city were ever killed but were sold to feeders who feed them until they reached their prime and then rendered a rich reward.

A story comes from St. Clair county, Missouri, to this effect: In 1868 when the Carpet Bagger had charge of county and State affairs, the judges voted bonds to build a railroad, about $1,500,000 worth. The road was built, about fifty miles, and the bonds came due. The railroad had been in operation only a few months when it went into the hands of a receiver and was sold. New England capitalists bought the stock and tried to collect it. They were defeated in the lower court but won in the Supreme Court, and a ruling was handed down that the county court should lay a levy to pay the bonds. The county judge refused and was jailed for contempt. His successor also refused and went to jail, and now a man whom the people honor with the position expects to go to jail. Some of the judges have served sentences ranging from six to twelve months.

Mrs. J. R. Apperson has been dangerously sick at her home below Marlinton.

Isaac and M. J. McNeil, of Mill Point, were in town Monday on business errands.

Mrs. Susie Criser is in Baltimore seeking medical assistance. She went there under the care and advice of Dr. Marshall.

Boone Slavin, a well known citizen of Fairfax, Hunt county, Texas, visited relatives and friends in Marlinton last week.

The last Enterprise states a large number of males and carps passed Huttonsville on their way to Durbin to work on the grade.

Dr. Yeager and Cunningham performed a difficult surgical operation on Mrs. W. J. Ewing Friday evening.

At the last meeting of the town council A. C. Ehard was appointed Town Sergeant to take the place of Charles Beverage, resigned.

The contract for building the road along the Price Bottom was awarded Andrew Livesey at $2.25 per cubic rod. He commenced work last week.

One of Marlinton's prosperous citizens has put up such a large double porch that some future visitor will remark what a nice house has been built to that porch.

D. Waugh, John Waugh, S. B. Moore and Isaac Sharp, of Edray and vicinity, were in town Wednesday looking after their varied and respective business interests.

Mrs. H. E. Steinhilber, Springfield, Mo., Mrs. Chas. E. Steinhilber, and Miss Ruth McNicola, Washington, D. C., were visiting at Captain A. E. Smith's last week.

Mrs. T. A. Sydenstricker, of the Levels, visited her sister, Mrs. Andrew Price, Monday. She was accompanied by Mason Brackman, of Ronceverte, a future shining light of the legal profession.

The merchant who sends his printing away from home to get it done can hardly complain of persons ordering goods from a distance. The printers here will compete with any firm either as to style, quality of paper and price.

Notice: My mill will not cut custom grinding only on two days of the week, Thursday and Friday, until later in the season. There is not enough grain in the country day—Geo. H. McLaughlin.

The memorial sermon of Noah S. Alderman has been changed to the 4th Sunday in August on account of the Presidential meeting. The sermon will be preached on Beaver Creek in the oak grove near Hugh Sharp's, at 10.30 p. m.

Rev. O. B. Sharp, of Frost, was in Marlinton Monday, looking after the interests of the board education, and scarcely had time to eat the dinner tendered him. These are the men needed to keep things moving.

The protracted vaudeville entertainment has made a marked impression upon the songs and dialect of Marlinton society and those of us who were not at the show feel that we are not in it now when all is so hilarious around us, failing to see the points made.

Rev. A. Sydenstricker, wife and children arrived in California Thursday the 1st inst, enroute home from their mission field in China. They will be at Cornelius Stallings, a brother of Mrs. Sydenstricker, at Academy, in the course of a few weeks.

Miss Stella Garber, well remembered by many of our readers, once resident of Marlinton, now of Elkins, W. Va., passed through Upper Pocahontas a few days since, accompanied by Clarence Jewett, for an extended visit to Sanger, W. Va. She holds a position in Newcomer's book store at Elkins.

A newly wed editor and a confirmed old bachelor editor have had an editorial scrap to this effect. The newly married one inquires: "What is the difference between a honey comb, a honey moon, and a pretty girl?" The bachelor replies "a honey comb is a small cell, a honey moon is a sell and a pretty girl is a damsel."

There is a level headed doctor at Parsons, if it be true, that a young man after receiving a prescription for nervous trouble and promising to pay for it very soon, asked the doctor to lend him money to pay the druggist to fill the prescription. The doctor thereupon tore the prescription up and gave it as his opinion that a nerve tonic was not needed on such premises.

On Saturday, July 27, a Hungarian couple was married at McKeesport, Penn. The Hungarian custom is that the gentlemen guests pay well to dance with the bride. In this case it was a dollar per dance. The dancing was kept up from Saturday to early Monday morning. During the 56th round the bride felt exhausted and died Monday evening, having danced in $94 in less than 48 hours.

A letter from Harrisonburg to the Richmond Times states: there are several corps of engineers at work between Durbin and Harrisonburg. The Virginia Central which was incorporated by the last Virginia legislature is the West Virginia Central by another name and the intention is to connect with the Southern at Harrisonburg.

Sherman H. Clark, Esq.

It now becomes our very sad duty to make memorial mention of Sherman H. Clark, of the Little Levels. He died rather unexpectedly Tuesday, July 30th, at the Richmond Hospital where he had submitted to a surgical operation for calculus, about the first of the month. What makes this event the more pathetic he had rallied from the prostration attending such operations in a manner surprising for one of his advanced age. On the 28th he felt so well that he wrote a cheerful letter, saying he was sure of being at home in a very little while. On the 29th he was seized with a severe chill, and on the 30th he breathed his useful life away, aged seventy two years.

Our whole county mourns in this citizen, the loss of one of our sterling citizens, widely known and greatly respected. This lamented man was the eldest son of the late Sheldon Clark, a native of Connecticut. It was very fortunate for his sons and the community at large that Sheldon Clark was an enthusiast on the subject of education and good morals. Hence he favored and aided in establishing the Hillsboro Academy, and had his sons to attend summer and winter in order to secure all the advantages afforded by the instruction in prayer and example given by Revs. Joseph Brown, M. D. Dunlap and others. When at school young Sherman H. Clark was regarded by his teachers as one of their most studious and promising pupils, singularly free from all impure habits, pleasant and docile in his deportment, a sincere, earnest student. Those who knew him best were not surprised he should come into prominence in county affairs at a very early age.

He had just attained his majority when he was appointed County Surveyor for Pocahontas. His first official survey was for John F. Ruckman. The plat calls for 25 acres and dated August 15, 1852. His last official work was for B. Garvey dated March 12, 1862. The largest work in this office was the famous survey he made for Messrs. Paul McNeil, George Edmiston and John Yeager, Jr. for lands on Williams River and Cranberry Creek calling for 28,500 acres. The official record is dated May 21, 1859.

He was frequently appointed by the Circuit Court special commissioner to deed lands in litigation. He was commissioner of the Pocahontas court beginning his duties as such January 1, 1881, associated with Wm. Curry and Sam B. Hanna. His services in this position closed December 31, 1888 and was succeeded by C. Edgar Beard.

One of the most notable things was the length of time he served as overseer of the poor and the judicious and benevolent manner in which he dealt with the needy and the infirm. "The Bible teaches that blessed is he that considereth the poor. Now who knows but this may explain in some measure the marvelous success that crowned Mr. Clark's business career.

In early manhood he became a professing Christian, a few years thereafter was chosen a ruling elder and became quite prominent in congregational affairs that made for peace and always tried to do what he felt to be his part in the enterprises of the church.

When in health his place in public worship was never vacant day or night no matter what the weather might be. As one of the commissioners he represented the Presbytery of Greenbrier in the General Assembly of 1881, convened at Staunton, Va., and was a member of the auditing committee. A goodly share of the work was assigned him and the writer would express the opinion that a more conscientious, painstaking report of the kind was never laid before any assembly before or since.

Our lamented friend is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Frances Clark, and a daughter, Mrs. Lee Beard. Messrs. Alvin Henry and Traston Clark are his brothers. The writer feels himself bereaved of a friend he has well known and much esteemed from boyhood even down to old age through the changes of sixty-two years.

"Brother, we shall meet and rest 'Mid the holy and the blest. Where a blighted world shall brighten Underneath a bluer sphere, And a safer, gentler sunshine Shed its healing splendor here; Where earth's barren vales shall blossom Putting on their robes of green, And a purer, fairer Eden Be where wastes have been. Where a King in Kingly glory Such as earth has never known, Shall assume the righteous sceptre, Claim and wear the heavenly crown— Brother we shall meet and rest 'Mid the holy and the blest."

I will sell lunch on the grounds the day of the McClintic Sale.

Mrs. Lena A. McKenney.

Misses Tiny Fisher and Florence Moore, of Huntersville, were visiting Mrs. L. M. McClintic a few days.

Divine services may be expected on Sunday, August 11th, 11 a. m., Brancher & Mohr's mill; 3.30 p. m., Cass; and 8 p. m. at Liberty, by Rev. H. W. McLaughlin.

All former students of Hampden Sidney College are invited to be at Cass, W. Va., on August 15th at 1 p. m. to organize an Alumni Association. The presence of all Hampden Sidney men in Randolph and Pocahontas counties especially desired.

—H. W. McLaughlin.

The band boys will give another concert Friday night on the lawn.

Answer to Bible Question.

MR. SENEX: You ask "what was the question put to Jesus by the lawyer and how did Jesus answer the question?"

The lawyer's question was, "What shall I do to inherit eternal life?" He doubtless wanted to know if there was something to be done besides what Moses and the prophets had told him, or if the Great Teacher had some plan of salvation different from that laid down in the Old Testament. This provided an opportunity for Jesus Christ to prove to this scribe or lawyer that "He had not come to destroy the law (that is the moral law) at the prophets, but to fulfill."

Jesus said, "What is written in the law, how readest thou?" The lawyer then quoted from Deut. vi: 5 and Lev. xix: 18. Jesus said, "Thou hast answered right." Thou hast answered thine own question. "This do and thou shalt live." That is love God as directed and thy neighbor as thyself, and in doing that thou wilt fulfill all the conditions upon which eternal life is promised. There can be no life without this love, and no love for God and man without the life.

But this lawyer, like many others who find it more convenient to ask questions than to do their known duty, endeavors to dull the pointed arrow of conviction by asking "who is my neighbor?" Jesus answered him with the parable of the good Samaritan, and forced home the lesson of doing rather than of talking. "Go thou and do likewise."

Now, Mr. Senex, your last question I must say is somewhat irreverent as it seems to me. "Was our Lord qualified to answer such a question as the lawyer put to him?" Qualified, indeed! In the first chapter of John it is said, "In the beginning was the word, and the word was with God, and the word was God. All things were made by Him and without Him was not anything made that was made."

Might as well ask was He qualified to do this? Read Luke x: 22, then ponder well verse 21.

Yours in earnest, H. LAWSON.

Miss Cordie Wiley.

Died, August 3rd, at the Central Hotel, Marlinton, after a brief and violent attack of peritonitis, Miss Cordie Wiley, of Monterey, Va., aged 19 years.

Miss Wiley was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Wiley, of Highland County. The late Conrad Kramer, of Crabbottom, was her grandfather.

She had been in Marlinton but a few months employed as a dressmaker by Mrs. S. J. Boggs and in that brief time made quite a number of friends by her attractive deportment. Though so young, she had for several years been a practicing Christian in the First Presbyterian church. A few hours before her death she requested the visiting pastor to sing "I am going home to die no more."

Her parents were hastily summoned and were with their loved daughter in her dying hours. They took her remains with them on their sad homeward return, to be buried with friends and kindred dear, who have gone before. It is such a death as Cordie's that lends pathetic significance to words like these.

"When blooming youth is snatched away By death's resistless hand, Our hearts the mournful tributes pay— That pity must demand. While pity prompts the rising sigh Oh, may this truth impress With awful power, 'I too must die' Sink deep in every breast."

W. T. P.

A Texas Pioneer.

Boone Slaven, of Hunt County, Texas, was in Marlinton last week, visiting friends and relatives. This is the first visit he has paid our county since he went to Texas from Highland in 1863. When he went to Texas both Indians and buffalo were plentiful, and the whole State was not much better than a cattle range. He was a cow puncher for years and he tells many interesting stories of the rough life upon the plains, of the development of the country, flourishing towns and fine cultivated farms occupying the grassy wastes over which he used to graze the long-horned Texas stock which, he says, has disappeared from all parts of Texas, except the extreme southern part, being replaced in every instance by blooded stock. In speaking of transportation Mr. Slaven remarked how much cheaper in the old days than now. In 1869 he started in March in Southern Texas with a very large herd, ten or twelve thousand, belonging to four or five companies who had combined forces for protection against the Comanches, who were on the warpath. They drove six hundred miles to the Red River, crossing Indian Territory and freighting them on the Northern Pacific in Kansas, on November 1. In nine months they had driven about two thousand miles, at an average cost of $1 per head. The cattle were in far better condition when loaded than when started. To ship them by rail now would entail a cost of something like $4 per head, not counting what the shift in weight.

Henry Slaven, from Meadow Dale, Va., spent some days in Marlinton the guest of his brother, Bernard.

The ladies of the M. E. church, South, will give a festival in the orchard about S. L. Brown's on Monday evening at 7 o'clock for the benefit of the Methodist parsonage. Should the weather prevent having it on Monday night, it will be given Tuesday night, the 20th.
